Dr. Whiting's Speech.

Ringed, patriotic words were those that fell from the mouth of the speaker, Dr. J. B. Whiting, surgeon general of the Grand Army of the republic. His heart was in his subject, and he handled it with inspiration that was born of the sight of the veterans who had served with him on the field of blood.

Dr. Whiting's address was one that made his hearers better men and women. In it were well rounded sentences that appealed to the innermost fount of patriotism and stirred the hearts of those who heard it, to better lives and nobler deeds.

That the committee, to whom had been left the matter of selecting a speaker, had made no mistake in inviting Dr. Whiting to fill that post of honor, was demonstrated. His address was patriotic, eloquent, inspiring. He said:

COMRADES, CITIZENS—At a recent unveiling of a statue, erected in honor of one of our most distinguished generals in the war of the rebellion, the president said, "Into our keeping is given the fame and the glory of the country's heroic dead."

"Fully imbued with this spirit, we have again assembled to pay our annual tribute to the memory of those who sleep here, having fought their last battle.

"Could the glory fields of the great South-land speak to us today, they could tell us of the doing and the daring of these men, of deeds as heroic as any that history has recorded of any nation, or people or individuals.

"In a sense, the fame and glory of the soldier-patriot is beyond our keeping; his work is done, and its results are entrusted upon the country, never to be effaced. His record is made up, and so long as our country shall live as a republic, his work cannot be forgotten.

"Does any one think me prodigal or profuse in expression because I speak of 'fame and glory' in connection with the humble dead who rest here?
No Grant, or Sherman or Sheridan or Hancock or McPherson or Rawlins are here; but it shall be said of them, that they did their duty as faithfully in the ranks as did the great heroes whose deeds and memories are perpetuated in bronze or marble. While no magnificent and imposing statue rises above the unheralded heroes who sleep here, the flowers we place upon their graves, are a loving testimonial and guarantee that their 'fame and glory' may safely be left to those who come after them, and who realize that through their labors, we still have an undivided country.

"But it is not alone to honor the dead that we come here. We come to inspire our own hearts anew by recounting their deeds and calling up their faces as they were in the long ago, when all were afield in the fierce struggle of that awful period.

"As we look into each others faces today, how vividly we recall many a word spoken by our comrades, in the moving column. Even the tone of the voice, its modulations and cadences linger in our ears as if spoken yesterday.

"And here another thought comes to us, is this: If the smooth-faced, youthful boys of that day could appear to us, with the changes that time stamps upon all, we should not recognize them, nor they us. Each would be looking for boys with elastic step, to find only the furrowed face, the bent form, the weary, inelastic step, the hair whitened by the frosts of many winters which have passed since we touched elbows in the field.

"But again, we come here not alone to revive old memories, or to warm the heart into quickening, for a moment, the circulation grown sluggish by age and exposure. We come, bringing our children and our children's children, that they may receive here a grand object lesson in patriotism—that they may learn here what sacrifices a patriot must make for his country when his country demands such sacrifices.

"It is said in classic phrase, that 'poets are born, not made.'
Patriots, also are born; born of a long line of ancestors who loved their country and its institutions, who fought in all the wars through which this country has passed, fought in the war that established this wonderful government of ours. I do not say that these born patriots are necessarily patriots par excellence, but I do say that they have a right to felicitate themselves that they carry in their veins the blood of men who helped to found this government.

"But if they make this claim, they must remember also, that we have a right to demand of them the highest vigilance, and the greatest sacrifices.
Surely, the man who can make such a claim, cannot, must not, allow the blood of his ancestors to grow sluggish in his veins, or the glow of patriotism to grow less in his heart. Such a man would be unworthy of ancestral fame, and unworthy the blessings of the government they helped to establish.

"But patriots can be made as well as born, and it is our bounden duty to embrace timely opportunities to teach our children lessons in patriotism and inculcate in them a love for the old flag. Teach them that an American citizen may claim protection under the American flag no matter where he may be where a government exists. To this end, cultivate in them both love and reverence for our national emblem.
Teach them to sing patriotic songs.
No school day should close without having the school-room made to echo the glad voices of children in soul-stirring songs, born of the war. Do this, not to make soldiers, but to make citizens, and it follows as a logical sequence, and a thousand times demonstrated in our war, that the better the citizen, the better the soldier.

"I admire the soldier, his martial bearing, the result of discipline and association. I admire his code, which brooks nothing 'unbecoming an officer and a gentleman,' but I deplore war, and I pray God speed the day when arbitration and not arms, shall adjust the differences that may arise between peoples or nations. War at best, is the relic of barbarism, when might,
and might only, made right.

"But we claim to have emerged from the barbaric, and to be living in the full blaze of the light of civilization and Christianity. If this be so, if this claim be not a sham, then, indeed, should Christian people demand that forces other than the horrid en-giny of war, shall be evoked to settle grave questions that may arise concerning international rights. Every means known to honorable diplomacy ought to be exhausted, before the war-making power shall dare to exercise that power. Everything but national honor may be imperiled before war is declared; but if the emergency arises when diplomacy fails, when the national honor is in the balance, then you must take up arms and strike, for the honor and safety of your country.

"Let no mawkish, noresistant sentimentality lull you into the idea that you are, under no circumstances, to take up arms.

"He who will not fight, if need be, to maintain the honor and independence of his country, has no personal honor, and does not deserve the blessings of a free country.

"I have said that it is our duty to teach our children to love and revere the national emblem, and I say further, that in teaching science and in studying literature, the science of government in its simpler forms, should receive more attention, and also that the literature we place before them shall be, more of it, of that character that will be helpful to them in the great battle of life, and less of it from libraries, moss-covered and musty, whose teachings are more than questionable, but are tolerated in schools because they are 'classic.' In brief, it ought to be the business of our schools to make citizens, self-respecting, self-supporting, independent citizens; citizens who will understand that it is their duty to take an interest in all that pertains to the public weal; to make themselves factors in the world's progress.

"If we fail in this, then woe to the future of the Republic!

"An education that fails to develop its subject into high grade citizenship, is not simply a failure, it is a disaster.
A disaster, because it fails to develop the high and noble qualities, without which, no one can be a good citizen.

"Mere education does not make good citizenship. And while I most fully concur in the sentiment that sectarianism should not be taught in our public schools, I should be recreant to my own conscience, and to my deliberate judgment, if I should neglect to say that any institution of learning, whether elemental or advanced, that fails to recognize the grand teachings of the gospel as the rule and guide of our lives, or that does not see in the Decalogue the basis of all laws that have been made for the protection and betterment of the human family. I say institutions and teachers who fail to make this recognition are to be deplored.

"Do you say I am wandering out of my legitimate field on this Memorial occasion? My answer is, that no one has a better right to speak upon questions that pertain to the development of the youth of our country into a noble citizenship than the men by whose efforts the country was saved from disruption and given back to the people in its entirety.

"If the Grand Army men seem egotistical or aggressive in matters touching the welfare of the state, do you not think you can afford to indulge them for a time longer?

"They are fast disappearing. More than seven thousand have joined the 'bivouac of the dead' since last Memorial day. Seven thousand more graves to decorate this year than ever before, and seven thousand less comrades to assist.

"The end truly is coming, and there are many within the sound of my voice, who will live to see the last soldier of the Grand Army that fought down the rebellion, borne to his final rest. No comrades can attend him as a guard of honor, or drop a tear or a flower into his 'windowless palace.'
But I bespeak for him, at your hands, a soldier's burial. Wrap his country's flag about him; drape the colors, muffle the drum, and bear him tenderly to his rest among his comrades; and let the mournful volley be fired over the last soldier of the grandest army the world ever saw; grand in the field, grander still when, flushed with victory, it put off the panoply of war and returned again to the peaceful vocations of the citizen.

"It cannot be denied, when this vast army was about to be disbanded, after four years of discipline in camp and field, there was no inconsiderable anxiety on the part of the people at home, as to what would be the result of this important event.

"For years these men had lived under conditions that had made it necessary to ignore or override the civil law and take direction and guidance from headquarters of the army only.

"Could such a body of men emerge from such a condition, and at once resume their duties as citizens under the civil law?

"While such a result was admitted to be possible, it was not thought to be probable. But the first thirty days answered that question.

"These men, war-worn and begrimed, were mustered out; put off the soldier and put on the citizen; received the thanks and congratulations of the people and disappeared.

Where? Each to his own vocation; the farmer to his farm, the mechanic to his shop, the artisan to his bench, the professional man to his office,—all absorbed into the community and became again an integral part of the thinking, moving world, all the better for the severe discipline they had received. Again, the Grand Army keeps vigilant watch of the trendings of legislation, as it relates to the future of our country. It views with alarm the condition of things, which in recent years have developed in the legislative department of the government.

"Even in places once occupied by Webster and Clay, and Benton and Shields, and Douglas, men are sitting who not only belong to a gigantic trust, but who have assisted in enacting laws by which such trust has been enabled to rob the government and enrich itself.

"May not Grand Army men offer an indignant protest against such scandalous proceedings in the highest branch of the national legislature?

"The Grand Army believes that this is an American government, with characteristic features which every lover of liberty and good government, no matter from what country he came, or when he came, desires to see perpepetuated.

Hence, it has no fellowship with that class of persons, who, because of their political viciousness, will not be tolerated in their own country, and when obliged to flee, come to us and immediately enter upon the nefarious work of exciting the bad element in our large cities into unrest, confusion and anarchy. Our doors are wide open to those who come here with the intention of becoming honest citizens, of making themselves a part of the government, believing in and loving the institutions which are characteristic of this nation. But they ought to have been closed long ago, to all others.
Nearly a million of men, and many millions of treasure, have been sacrificed to make this government what it is today, and by God's grace, and the patriotism of the people it shall abide.

"Secret societies which have for their object, the control of governments, local or general, are a constant menace to any government.

"This great government does not ask those who come here to forget the social relations of their childhood.

"There is, and must always be a sentimental attachment to the land of one's birth. It is a sentiment that inheres in the human heart and cannot be eradicated. But politically, this relation of things does not obtain.

"People who are satisfied with the country in which they were born, had best remain there. But if they come here, they must leave behind them all secret associations which menace our peace and safety.

"We have no place for Anarchists or Communists who set our laws at defiance. Such people will never become good citizens, and they ought to be deported before they find permanent lodging here.

"The Grand Army does not claim to be exempt from criticism and it invites careful scrutiny of its principles, its measures, and its men. And if criticisms must follow, if they are kept within lines of truth and decency, the Grand Army will have no grievance because thereof.

"But it is the slanderous mouthings of men in high stations to which it objects.

"What Charles Eliot of Boston, thinks or says of it, is of no more consequence than what any other obscure citizen of Boston might say.
I say obscure, because outside of educational institutions, not one man in a thousand remembers ever having heard the name of this man, until he made his villainous attack upon the Grand Army and its motives.

"The offense of this man consists in the fact that he is president of a grand old university, where thousands of young men are being educated. Can the country afford to have its young men subject to the influence of a man whose daily life indicates, but too plainly, how little he has in common with the average American citizen?
And yet we are told that this man was born in Boston.

"Thomas Carlyle, the great English essayist, in writing of Bacon said,
'It has been my purpose to place this man on a pedestal of infamy from which his friends will find it difficult to remove him.'

"So has Comrade Watrous—Watrous the fearless—with indignant soul and treacherous pen, placed this infamous president of a famous institution, upon a pedestal of infamy, from which he will find it difficult to escape.

"Hester Prynne—you will remember—being suspected of a crime, was brought out into a public square, that the people, with indignant scorn, might gaze into her face and taunt her with her sin. Those rigid old puritans who never forgave anything until public confession had been made,
thought they were but doing her justice.

"But the crime of Hester Prynne was white-robed innocence compared with the black-hearted slander of President Eliot.

"How much longer will this man be tolerated in a position where his cruel slanders bite like a serpent and sting like an adder?

"Grand Old Harvard! First born of American Colleges, in the name of the limping, suffering heroes, whom your president has mangled. I ask you to vomit him out, and put in his place a man who will better represent America and American ideas.

"I am a New Englander by birth, education, and habit, and I know something of her people. When President Lincoln made his first call for troops, within six days Governor Andrew had sent to the front, six fully equipped regiments of infantry. As you will remember, the first regiment, while passing through Baltimore, was attacked by a mob, and several of the soldiers were killed. Governor Andrew telegraphed the mayor of Baltimore—"Please have the bodies of the dead soldiers tenderly packed in ice and send them back to me." It is the comrades of these men, and such as these, whom your president seeks to malign.

In the name of one of the grandest men of those times, I protest against this unnatural situation. Were the great War Governor still living, and had he the power, he would drive this man from that great temple of learning, as Jesus, the Christ, drove the thieves and money-changers from the great temple at Jerusalem.

"President Eliot! Please retire out of the sight of honorable men and women of America.

"In sharp contrast with this man is the life and character of our own beloved, revered, lamented, Fairchild, whom, but yesterday, we tenderly bore to his final rest.

"It was regarded as befitting the occasion, that he should receive the honors of a military burial. But the blare of trumpets, the flash of sabers, the boom of artillery, and the rattle of musketry are as nothing to the love and tears of his fellow townsmen, who had known him from boyhood to manhood, up through his career as citizen and soldier.

"No better citizen ever honored the state: No braver soldier ever went to the field.

"Those who were privileged to enter where his body lay, in the old manse made historic by his beautiful life, and redolent of sweet memories, can never forget the scene.

"Standing around the bier were a score of his comrades with bowed heads: And as the robed priest entered and said: 'I am the resurrection and the life.

He that believeth in me shall not perish, but have everlasting life,' the stillness was painful; and when the service was ended, the priest passed out, and in the awful stillness of the moment, we seemed to hear again the voice saying—'Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, for they do rest from their labors.'

"Patriot, citizen, soldier, statesman, comrade, friend, farewell! Neatly the low, green tent whose curtain never outward swings, rest thee. Rest, till the trump of the angel shall summon thee nearer the throne of God.

"In the light of such memories you cannot falter!

"You will be inspired to elevate your standard of patriotism and to intensify your love for your country's flag.

"Every nation has its rallying point; something the sight or sound of which stirs the soul.

"During the siege of Lucknow, in 1857, a Scotch maiden, weary and exhausted by her efforts to ameliorate the sufferings of the long beleaguered garrison, lay down upon the ground for a moment's rest. Suddenly she sprang to her feet, and with a wild glad cry said, 'Dinna ye hear the slogan?'
As she lay upon the ground her quick ear had caught the sound of the bagpipe, whose wondrous music had, so many times, delighted her in her highland home, and her soul was aroused to enthusiasm, and as those about her gazed with incredulity, she shouted, 'Dinna ye hear it?' 'Can ye not hear it?' with such a burst of joy, that the whole garrison joined in the shout.
They did not hear it, but they believed she did, and they hoped for relief, and it came.

"So the name of Essie McLean was perpetuated, in song and story, and will be remembered until the siege of Lucknow and its horrors are forgotten.

"The sound of the harp stirs the warm blood of the Celt, and with flashing eye, he will recall many a thrilling scene in the history of his race.

"The Crusaders carried the cross,
high uplifted, in their weary march, believing it a talisman that would not only protect them, but would bring them victory. Their war cry was 'In Hoc Signo Vincas!'

"The Moslem carried the crescent, and devoutly believed, that under it, they would increase in numbers and greatness.

"What the bagpipe is to the Scotch;
the harp and the shamrock and the green flag to the Celt; the cross to the Crusaders; and the crescent to the Moslem, so—and more—let the stars and stripes be to you.

"But above all, and crowning all,
trust in God.

"The great blue arch above us is emblematic of a great shield, hanging upon the Omnipotent arm, to protect us if we put our trust in Him.

"Comrades—we shall not all meet again. But whoever falls, close up the ranks and move on with steady, hopeful step, in full faith that He who watched over us in camp and field, will have us in His keeping to the end."

Following the address, came the decoration of the graves, and the exercises of the Grand Army.

Gave a Patriotic Rally.

A novel entertainment was given at the Congregational church last night, it being a "patriotic rally" under the auspices of the Local Union of the Young People's societies. The attendance was quite large, and the mock convention and primaries were held according to schedule. Many a voter was bribed with the ice cream that was kept for sale, and electioneering was done inside the legal limit, but no prosecutions will follow. The entertainment was as enjoyable as it was novel, which is saying a good deal.

The Elks Meeting.

State Grand Deputy T. Destee of Fond du Lac, was present at last night's meeting of the Elks, and at the conclusion of the business the meeting was adjourned until Friday evening of next week, June 5, at Castle hall. The attendance was lessened by the fact that fifteen members of the Elks were also Knights Templar.

The Psychological Quintette.

Prof. Collins' Psychological Quintette will close the Janesville engagement at the opera house this evening. The attendance last night was smaller than on the opening evening, but all enjoyed the performance. Ten, twenty and thirty cents are the prices.

R. N. A. Entertainment is "On."

But a small audience gathered at Liberty hall last night to participate in the entertainment of the Royal Neighbors of America, and the affair was postponed indefinitely. It will probably be given some time after the big picnic.

NEARLY 400 KILLED BY THE CYCLONE

BODIES BEING RECOVERED AT ST. LOUIS.

More Than 7,000 Buildings Were Damaged by the Storm—Property Valued at $25,000,000 Destroyed There and at East St. Louis—Reports of Damage in the Country.

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—Memorial day had an added significance today when the bodies of a large number of those who were killed in Wednesday's hurricane were buried. It is known that 175 men, women and children had their lives crushed out Wednesday afternoon or have since died from injuries received. Adding to this number the 120 dead in East St. Louis and the 100 reported missing in both cities, who are supposed to be buried beneath the ruins or floating down the Mississippi river, the aggregate of the hurricane's victims amounts to nearly 400. It is estimated that in St. Louis at least 7,500 houses and in East St. Louis 500 houses are more or less damaged by the storm, and the estimates of property losses range from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000 for both places.

Friday was a day of great activity displayed by the street-car and railway, electric light, telephone and telegraph companies, who put several thousand men at work endeavoring to bring order out of the tangle caused by the hurricane. The street-car service is improving every hour. The railroads are attending to business, as usual, so far as handling passengers is concerned, but freight traffic is somewhat embarrassed. The telephone system will not be restored to the normal condition for some time, and the Western Union lines, which were badly crippled, are gradually assuming a working condition.

At present, however, the city officials and business men are thinking more of relief for the suffering living than of death and damage. Over $25,000 has been contributed already to the relief fund, and several thousand more have been offered if needed. Among the contributions made is one of $1,000 from Sir Henry Irving. Olga Nethersole wires offering to give a benefit performance in London for the relief fund. The relief committee, however, has not yet decided whether or not it will accept outside contributions.

Many benefit entertainments of various kinds, such as ball games, theatrical performances and school picnics have been planned to raise money for the fund.

The destitution, misery and want have touched the hearts of the people in all parts of the country, and as a result, ever since the storm of Wednesday offers of help and contributions have been pouring in to Secretary George H. Morgan of the Merchants' exchange. Up to a late hour $45,000 was the total amount of donations received.

A few of the appended messages show that the purses as well as the sympathy of the people of the United States are at the disposal of the helpless unfortunates of St. Louis. St. Louis is always ready to give, but never begs unless it should become necessary by abject want. The mayor of the Mound city, well knowing her civic pride, has uniformly returned thanks to the senders of telegrams and answered that St. Louis can care for her own, and while the kind offers of financial assistance are appreciated, no outside aid will be needed.

Estimates of the loss in St. Louis vary from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000. It has been impossible thus far to procure a comprehensive view or report of the losses. Friday several estimates were made, and the more conservative placed the amount at nearer $20,000,000 than $50,000,000. In the territory along the levee and Main, 2d 3d and Washington streets the property will be an absolute loss and the damage will easily reach $1,000,000. From Main to 8th street and from O'Fallon south to Franklin street the loss is fully $700,000. In this district live a class of industrious working people, the majority of them Germans, and their loss is particularly pathetic, as the clothes upon their backs is all many of them were left by the gale. In the manufacturing and business district near Chouteau and Market streets, the loss will scarcely be covered by $1,500,000. Extending to the south along Broadway to the vicinity of Lafayette park, including mostly manufacturing plants and business houses, the loss will be upward of $750,000. South from Lafayette park the storm ruined almost everything in sight. Here the damage to many of the buildings is complete, while the whole is reckoned at $650,000. South of what is called Souldard and west from the river to the city limits the hurricane wreaked awful vengeance upon the many fine and magnificent residences. A careful assessment of the value of the property was made by a local architect and a conservative estimate places the loss there at $1,000,000. Another $1,000,000 damage was done in the fine residence district extending to the north and as far east as the city hospital, which is a mass of ruins, destroyed beyond hope of redemption. The proposition has been made for the city to float bonds to erect a new building. In the immediate vicinity of the hospital and northeast and north of Lafayette park an additional loss of $3,000,000 is entailed. West of Lafayette park the wind worked a loss of $2,000,000, which extends as far north as Chouteau avenue. As it swept down Chouteau avenue to Jefferson and Seventh streets, it gained force and consequently did greater damage. Here the estimate is a loss of $3,000,000, which includes the territory south of the railroad tracks extending over the territory adjacent to Park avenue and between Tenth,

Seventh and Market streets. The damage in this part of the storm's pathway is placed at $4,500,000. To even those unacquainted with the territory and the buildings upon it the loss seems enormous and almost beyond estimation. The balance of the estimated total loss of $20,000,000 is distributed very liberally to the central, western and northwestern parts of the city, and includes loss to schools, approximating $150,000, and other public buildings.

Competent contractors and architects give as their opinion that it will take two years to repair the damage done by the hurricane. On the ten grain elevators belonging to the St. Louis United Elevator company, nine are more or less damaged. The Valley elevator, East St. Louis, is a total wreck. President W. T. Anderson of the United Elevator company estimates the damage to its various plants at $303,000.

Following is a revised list of the dead in St. Louis:

RUIN AND MISERY.

Residents of East St. Louis Paralyzed by the Disaster.

East St. Louis, Ill., via Venice, Ill., May 30.—The extent of the disaster in this city no longer horrifies. The people have got beyond that. They are simply tired of hearing of new evidences of the widespread and powerful nature of the storm. There is a paralysis about the city. Ex-Mayor Stephens, known throughout southern Illinois as a most energetic and level-headed man, acknowledges that he has not yet got settled back into an orderly state of mind, and is unable to hazard a guess on any distinct feature of the visitation. He inclines to the belief that the city will be rebuilt, however, assuming that most of the loss is borne by men who have means to begin over again, while the smaller houses destroyed represent only a fraction of the loss embraced in the going down of the finer ones likely to be rebuilt. There are many, however, who gloomily predict that East St. Louis cannot recover and that this shock to her vitality will be felt for ten years.

The corporations, of course, have men at work clearing away so that business may be resumed. In this way the bridge company caused the throwing aside of the impeding masonry and steel which had blocked the Eads structure, and passenger trains are crawling across this highway into St. Louis. The driveways will not be passable for several days and the bridge as a whole will not resume its original condition of perfection for months. The person who considered that it would take a year to entirely obliterate the effects of the storm from this bridge was mistaken. Within three months it will most likely be in its old form.

The yards and tracks of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, the Clover Leaf, Washab, Peoria & St. Louis, Illinois Central, Mobile & Ohio and Baltimore & Ohio roads are practically clear, and those roads are handling car-load freight. The Vandalla and the Louisville & Nashville roads will not be able to handle freight in East St. Louis for some time. Not a pound of freight is going out or coming in to East St. Louis by wagon. The Eads bridge, which has been opened to railroad traffic is impassable for teams, and the lone ferryboat which travels between St. Louis and East St. Louis comes for passengers only.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad promptly solved a problem that was advanced by the homeless families along Missouri and Milliken avenue on the island. A long line of brand new Chicago, Paducah & Memphis railroad freight cars stood on the Baltimore & Ohio yard tracks. The storm had passed them by and the superintendent had the doors thrown wide open. Then a general invitation was extended to those who had no roof over their heads but the sky to move into the freight cars. The invitation was accepted and at once the freight cars were occupied. But scores of families slept out of doors with perhaps a carpet "lean-to" over their heads.

Two companies of the Illinois national guard are on duty on the levee protecting railroad property.

Following is the latest list of the dead in East St. Louis:

William Avery, Richard Anderson, John Anderson, Andrew Anderson, Emma Bladger, J. C. DEATH AT NEW MINDEN.

Village Practically Obliterated and Five Persons Killed.

Nashville, Ill., May 30.—New Minden, a village of 400 population, located seven miles north of this city, was swept away Wednesday evening by one of the most terrific tornadoes ever known in the history of this county. Only one building in the little village is left standing without injury. There are from fifty to sixty buildings in the place and all were wrecked except the creamery. Farmhouses, barns, fences, and orchards are now in ruins, growing crops and fruit trees are badly damaged. The track of the storm covered at least a mile in width, but the heavy wind touched up much greater territory throughout the northern half of the county. The killed at New Minden are:

Wren Smith, resident of Nashville; Mrs. Hendrick Myer and baby; Miss Tillie Bennie, Fred Koch's son.

Seriously injured at New Minden: Fred Hoffman, will die; William Weihe and wife, Louis Vulbrock and son, Louise Vulbrock, Fred Koch and wife, Mrs. M. Wassell, William Vogt, William Kinnie, F. W. Ellerbusch and wife, William Bocks, Mrs. Moehman, Mrs. C. Winte, son and daughter; Ida Coxman, Mrs. A. Krazchoff, Henry Gerfen, Mrs. William Brinkman and daughter, Emilia Buckmoeller, Edda Buckmoeller, Mrs. Louis Horstman, Mrs. Russell, Simon Weiss and daughter, William Holstenberg, Martha Hasseman.

The estimated loss in the property to the citizens of New Minden is $75,000 to $100,000, and to the farmers in the storm-stricken portion of this county the damage will not fall short of $50,000.

Twelve Killed at New Baden.

Mascoutah, Ill., May 30.—The people of Mascoutah and vicinity have bravely set to work to repair the damage wrought by the storm Wednesday evening. The little daughter of John Born, killed near New Baden, was buried here today. The funerals of Jacob Millich and John Beatley, a child, will take place tomorrow. No other deaths have resulted here.

The revised list of dead at New Baden is as follows:

Peter Kraus and wife, William Rust and wife, Willie Rust, Adam Peters, Hazel Ethington, Plus Meyers, Ida Born, Charles Lee, a jewelry drummer, — Ferguson, girl aged 3 years.

Injured: Ben Speiser, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Miss Kolb, George Hurst, Emma Kraus, children of J. W. Born.

The people in the neighboring towns are giving the sufferers at New Baden all the assistance possible. In Mascoutah the injured are recovering, and no more deaths will likely result.

Four Killed at Jefferson City.

Mt. Vernon, Ill., May 30.—The reports of death which reached here from Jefferson City, this county, were erroneous. Only four persons were actually killed, Mrs. Margaret Correll and son Charles and Charles King, the two latter aged 17 years. The others reported dead were only injured, except Robert Foster, who lived half a mile away, who was killed at the same time

THE HEROIC DEAD.

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the purpose that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate we cannot hallow this ground. The great men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.—LINCOLN.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1644—Peter Paul Rubens, the great Flemish artist, died; born 1577. Rubens was the most celebrated of the Flemish school of painters. His early masters were Flemish; afterward he passed eight years in the studios of Rome. On his return to Antwerp he produced what is considered by many his masterpiece, "The Descent From the Cross." His rise was rapid, and he was employed in diplomatic services. Charles I of England and Philip IV of Spain conferred upon him the honor of knighthood. Rubens' forte was that of a colorist. He painted history, portraits, landscapes and animals with equal success. Ruskin criticised him as an artist lacking soul except as he painted children.

1758—Voltaire died; born 1694.

1892—Destructive floods and tornadoes in states west of the Mississippi.

Southern Miners Will Not Strike.

Birmingham, Ala., May 30.—There will be no miners' strike in this district on July 1, when the present wage contract between the miners and operators expires. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, employing 5,000 coal miners, this afternoon signed a year's contract with its miners that they are to be paid 40 cents a ton for mining coal when pig iron is worth $8.50 per ton or less, and for every advance of 50 cents per ton in the price of iron above $8.50 the miners' wages are to be increased 2½ cents per ton. This is 2½ cents per ton higher than the present contract basis. This action controls that of the other operators. Ten thousand miners are affected by the raise in wages.

President Is Coming West.

Duluth, May 30.—Winnibijou, the new and favorite fishing resort on the Brule, is to be honored this season with the presence of President Cleveland and party. The party will be the guests of Senator Vilas, and will be quartered in the senator's rustic cabin on the great fishing stream. The date of their arrival has not been definitely fixed, but it is expected that August 15 will find them angling for the wily trout. They will remain three weeks, and as the deer seasons opens September 1, they will have an opportunity to indulge for a week in the exhilarating sport of hunting the light-footed monarch of the Wisconsin prairies.

Will Vote on the Bond Bill.

Washington, May 30.—The republican senators held a caucus Friday and decided upon the order in which bills on the calendar should be taken up. There was a general understanding that nothing should interfere with the consideration of conference reports on the appropriation bills and that no obstacle should be placed in the way of reaching a vote on the Butler bond bill. The caucus decided not to accept any amendments to the filled-cheese bill.

C. E. Bentley for President.

Pittsburg, May 30.—Silver bolters from the national prohibition convention early Friday morning nominated Charles E. Bentley of Nebraska, for president, and J. H. Southgate of North Carolina for vice-president. At a meeting the leaders of the new party organized for a vigorous campaign and $2,000 was subscribed toward the expenses. Mr. Bentley asserted that he would draw 100,000 votes from the prohibitionists and that many western silver men would flock to the new party.

BEDRIDDEN.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF SUFFERING.

The Doctors Wanted Seven Hundred Dollars to Attempt the Case.

The following is a letter we received a short time ago from Mrs. M. C. Hinkley, 602 North Mississippi St., Indianapolis, Ind.:

Gentlemen:—While suffering intensely from piles, I became interested in your advertisement in one of our daily papers and procured a package of your Pyramid Pile Cure from our druggist. Contrary to my expectations, the relief was instantaneous. I used two boxes of the Pile Cure and one of the Pills and am convinced that they are the only sure cure for piles on the market. I have been a sufferer from piles for fifteen years and have been confined to my bed about one-half of the time, expecting and wishing for death for the pain was so great. I went to the college here and the doctors said my case was a new one to them, the great pain having brought on a large rupture, which they wanted seven hundred dollars to cut out. I was very much afraid that death would result from the blood-poisoning which they said would result from the operation. I feel as though I can't praise the Pyramid Pile Cure and the Pyramid Pills too highly, as I am convinced that they saved my life. Before using your cure I weighed only ninety pounds and now I weigh one hundred and fifty and feel as well as I ever did in my life. You are at liberty to use this testimonial in any manner you may see fit, as I want all sufferers from this terrible disease to know that there has at last been compounded a remedy that will cure piles.

Mrs. M. C. HINKLEY.

There is no need of the danger, pain and expense of a surgical operation for any form of piles. The Pyramid Pile Cure does the work without pain and is the safest and best. Remember also that the Pyramid Pills are a certain cure for constipation, acting without gripping and restoring natural action of the bowels.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1.00, and the Pyramid Pills at 25 cents, or by mail from Pyramid Co., Albion, Mich.

HOUSE BLOWN DOWN OVER THEIR HEADS

M. W. PIERSON'S FAMILY'S EXPERIENCE AT ST. LOUIS.

Storm Left Them With Nothing But the Clothes They Had On, Although They Escaped Injury—Mrs. Pierson and Her Daughter Here On a Visit.

A Janesville family lost their all in the great St. Louis cyclone.

The residence of M. W. Pierson, formerly of this city, was totally demolished, and the family was left with nothing but the clothing they had on, but luckily, they escaped injury.

Mrs. Pierson and her daughter Emma, arrived in Janesville this noon and will make a visit with their Janesville friends. They are now the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Q. O. Sutherland, and say that on the evening of that terrible day they were sitting alone in their dwelling.

House Blown Down.

All at once, and without a moment's warning, the slight wind turned into a raging storm, and in less time than it takes to tell it, the largest portion of their house was a mass of ruins. In spite of the fact that hundreds of people were killed and wounded in their very sight, they escaped injury, even when their house collapsed over them.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierson have two sons in St. Louis. C. H. Pierson is the master mechanic in the big street railway power house that was wrecked, while George is a machinist in a shop that was also blown down.

Mr. Pierson will be remembered as the former janitor of the Congregational church.

NEARLY 400 KILLED.

as Mrs. Correll and the two boys. It is thought that nearly seventy-five buildings are totally demolished in the county. Fruit trees, wheat and corn are ruined in many places and the total loss in Jefferson county is much larger than at first thought and is estimated at nearly $50,000.

Mexico's Dead Number Nine. Meico, Mo., May 30.—The correct list of those killed and injured in the fearful storm in this county is as follows. The killed:

Eliza Ware, daughter of J. G. Ware; Hilda Blase, 6 years old, who died from her injuries last night; Eulah Miller, 9 years old; Rose Hodge, 6 years old; 9-year-old son of Albert Knoebel; Riley Haagn, Eugene Lott, 7 years old; Pearl Hodge, 8 years old; son of Frank Erdell, 8 years old.

The injured: Clara Lierheimer, 6 years old; Charles Doepke, about 50 years old; son of W. B. Willingham, child of the Rev. J. Enrich, child of Robert Walters, Miss Mary Blenco, teacher, seriously; two children of Ne Hagas, Lulu Eubanks, 7 years old; G. W. Farrington.

Loss of property upwards of $100,000, with little insurance.

Imprisoned Man Eaten by Rats.

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—The awful misery of a sufferer of the tornado was discovered Friday morning when John Woodward was taken from the wreckage of a residence at 2106 Ohio avenue. His flesh had been eaten away in a hundred places by rats and mice, and he had been so pinioned down that he could not move a muscle to frighten the rodents away. He had been in the back room on the second floor when the building fell in, and he was carried down to the first floor with the ceiling of his room on top of him. He could move neither his arms nor his legs, and a rafter held his head down tightly.

Killed by Incensed People.

St. Louis, Mo., May 30.—A gentleman who was in the neighborhood of the Union depot powerhouse at St. Louis just after the storm asserts that some of the crowd there assaulted a ghoulishly caught thief and beat him to death. Some one hit the man with a club, felling him to the ground. Then the crowd jumped on the man and kicked him until he was unconscious.

Relief for Iowa's Sufferers.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 30.—Des Moines business men have collected $1,000 in the city for the relief of cyclone sufferers in Polk and Jasper counties. Nearly $500 has been contributed by other towns, among them Pomeroy, which was demolished by a tornado two years ago. The losses in this and adjoining counties from the cyclone, exclusive of crops, will amount to $100,000.

Only One Survivor in Fourteen.

Lincoln, Neb., May 30.—G. P. Munn, wife and family of twelve children moved from Lincoln to St. Louis on the 16th of this month. The father, mother and eleven children were killed in the tornado. Advice to that effect were received by relatives from Frank Munn, the sole survivor of the family.

DANGER OF HAVING A DOUBLE.

Narrow Escape of an Innocent Man from Conviction for Felony.

From the Washington Star: It is sometimes very unpleasant and even dangerous to look like another person. A friend of mine who was engaged in the practice of law told me of a singular instance where too strange a resemblance got a client into trouble. A young man was arrested, charged with burglary. He had been surprised while in the sleeping room of the head of the family, and had escaped by jumping through a window. He was pursued, but got away. Two hours later my friend's client, a stranger in the town, was arrested. The man and his wife, who saw him, positively identified the young man, as did those who joined in the pursuit. To his attorney he persisted in protesting his innocence, but could not account for himself at the time the offense was committed, except by saying he took a long walk to see the city. The attorney who at first believed his client to be guilty, looked up his record and became convinced that the young man was innocent, but his conviction seemed a foregone conclusion. One day the lawyer met a man on the street whom he mistook for his client.

"Why, how did you obtain bond?" he asked.

"You are evidently taking me for someone else," was the answer.

A bright idea struck the lawyer. The stranger looked as though he was in hard luck, and a proposition to sit in the court room during the trial was accepted. The lawyer concealed the double until the case was called, then he had the real prisoner sit behind him where he could not be seen, the accused being small and my friend quite large. The double was seated in the prisoner's dock. Every man identified the man most positively, and the prosecuting attorney looked most satisfied until the supposed prisoner was placed upon the stand, and it was shown that he was not the defendant. Subsequently a convicted burglar made a confession, and among the crimes was the one with which my friend's client had been charged.

An Old Achievement.

"How fallacious some of these prov-erbs are," remarked the sagacious man. "Take, for example, that one about there being nothing new under the sun."

"Is there anything really new?" said his wife.

"Of course there is. Don't you read the papers? Don't these X rays enable you to take a man and see right through him?"

"Yes, William, dear," she answered, gently. "But any woman could do that before X rays were even thought of."—Washington Star.

Thoroughly Posted.

Cigar Dealer—Yes, I want a boy here. Have you had any experience?

Youthful Applicant—Lots.

"Suppose I should mix up the price marks in these boxes, could you tell the good cigars from the bad ones?"

"Easy 'nough."

"How?"

Nerve and Pluck.

Railroad Superintendent (to applicant)—Have you sufficient nerve and courage to do your duty in times of danger?

Applicant (with a superior smile)—Nerve and courage, sir? I jest ate three of those railroad sandwiches downstairs.

Superintendent (to clerk)—Give this man an engine on the "limited" night run.—Bay City Chat.

Presumption Rebuked.

"One of the strong points about this carpet, ma'am," said the salesman, "is that it won't show dirt as plainly as some others. You couldn't have to sweep it nearly as often as—"

"I shouldn't have to sweep it at all, young man," interrupted Mrs. Gaswell, with much sharpness. "We keep a hired girl."—Chicago Record.

The Supercilious Waiter.

A Dallas gentleman went into a restaurant, and the waiter, while serving him, looked down on him very contemptuously. After standing it for some time, the gentleman said:

"Waiter, you needn't put on so much style to me. Perhaps some of these days you may be a guest yourself."—Texas Sifter.

Somewhat of a Predicament.

A lady's fourth husband lay at the point of death, while she hung over him with tender and watchful care.

"We will meet again in h-heaven, dear," he said, with difficulty.

"Ye-es," she replied, hesitatingly, "but I am afraid it may be a little bit embarrassing, John."—Bay City Chat.

Diabolical.

Mrs. Johnson—Hateful, stuckup thing! How proud she was of that new dress of hers. She would hardly look at me; but I got even with her!

Mrs. Jackson—How did you do it?

Mrs. Johnson—Oh, I told my servant girl where she could get a dress just like it.—Somerville Journal.

"Yes," replied the theatrical manager; "on an assumption that they know how to act."—Washington Star.

Self-Defense.

"So you accompanied your wife to the play after all?"

"Yes. I happened to think that if I didn't she would tell me all about it when she came home."—Chicago Record.

Trouble in the Pantry.

"You're not worth your salt," said the mustard, turning up its nose at the butter.

"I don't see any occasion for you to get hot about it," retorted the butter, in a strong voice.—Chicago Tribune.

A Rather Doubtful Accomplishment.

Distinguished Foreigner—I understand the United States has built some of the fastest cruisers ever designed?

American—Yes, sirree. They can run like a railway train.—N. Y. Weekly.

Then She Got Mad.

She—Why, Charles, how can you call Miss James plain? I wish I was only half as good-looking.

He—You are, Hattie, and you know it.—Titbits.

SACRED CONFIDENCE.

NO WOMAN'S LETTER PUBLISHED EXCEPT BY REQUEST.

Mrs. Pinkham's Tender Relations With the Suffering of Her Sex—Women Who Cannot Hide Their Happiness.

There is a class of women who, from their own experience, sympathize with their suffering sisters, and in order that such suffering may be lessened, nobly put aside false modesty and in heartfelt gratitude publish to the world whatever woman should know.

Mrs. W. L. Elliott, Liscomb, Iowa, is one of those women, and has requested us to publish the facts in her case, otherwise it would not be done, as all such evidence is treated in sacred confidence, unless publication is requested by the writer.

She says to Mrs. Pinkham:—"I wish you would publish the circumstances of my case, in order that other women may be benefited by my experience."

"I doctored nearly all the time for two years. I spent several hundred dollars without receiving much benefit. Last June I wrote to you and described all my aches and pains. Such a long list as there was: headache, backache, bearing-down pains, terrible soreness, constipation, dizziness, feeling of extreme lassitude, irregularity and nausea; but you answered my letter and told me just what to do. I followed your advice."

"After taking eight bottles of the Vegetable Compound and three bottles of Blood Purifier, I am glad to write you that I have not enjoyed such good health for years, and I am able to do all my own work. I can surely sound the praises of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and a number of my friends are taking it upon my recommendation."—Mrs. W. L. ELLIOTT, Liscomb, Iowa.

THE TRADE REVIEW BY DUN & COMPANY

SOME RECESSION IN VALUES NOTED.

Dun's Report Claims That Political Uncertainties Tend to Restrict Business—Markets for Products Weak—The Failures Reported.

New York, May 30.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Continued exports of gold, amounting to $3,900,000 this week, are recognized as natural results of the borrowing and importing early in the year, but caused no serious apprehension. The present political uncertainties cause part of the business that might be done to be postponed until the future is more clear.

Markets for produce are weak, rather than stagnant. The business done is small, but largely governed by the belief in large crops and insufficient demand. Wheat has fallen 3 cents. Though low prices bring larger Atlantic exports than a year ago, for the first time in many months, flour included, 1,543,973 bushels for the week, against 1,433,745 bushels last year, it remains that for May these exports have been only 4,742,777 bushels, flour included, against 6,183,420 last year, while western receipts are for the week nearly 10 per cent larger, and for four weeks, 8,048,645 bushels, against 5,944,572 bushels last year. Estimates vary widely, but nobody looks for a crop so short as to exhaust the surplus in sight.

Cotton has fallen an eighth in spite of continued reports that a famine is near. Decreases in manufacture of 30 per cent at the north, and perhaps more at the south, show the real nature of estimates based on continued manufacture at the maximum rate. Receipts still indicate a crop of 7,000,000 bales last year, and a yield is promised much greater than consumption in any year.

Except in print cloths, which are weak, with stocks of 1,723,000 pieces in sight, nobody can tell what quantities of goods have been accumulating while mills have been waiting for demand. Wool sales, exclusive of a few speculative transactions based on extreme low prices, are less than 40 per cent, of a week's fair consumption, and for May have been 12,711,900 pounds against 20,800,750 last year, and 20,159,900 pounds in 1892. Prices are weaker, washed XX 16½ cents; Ohio delaine, 19 cents and about half the quantity sold is foreign. The larger manufacturers took quantities of wool in January, and the smaller want scarcely any now. Dress goods are quiet, except for Wheeling use, and dealings in men's wear still unsatisfactory. Silk is a shade stronger for Italian, but a large auction sale of silks realized low prices.

The iron and steel markets are weak, with lower prices, because the demand for finished products is entirely inadequate, though prices are higher. Pig iron has fallen over 5 per cent, since April 1, but the average of finished products has been advanced 3 per cent. Lower quotations for Bessemer and Grey forge, and local coke at Chicago, with stoppage of two-thirds of the furnaces in Virginia, some in Pennsylvania and others in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys, result from inability of manufacturers to sell at prices which their combination demands, they being undersold by new concerns which are rapidly putting in new machines. Plates weaken, and there is no improvement in sheets, rods; but beam-makers have raised the prices $2 per ton, making a slight advance in the average of all prices for the week. It is possible that rebuilding after the disaster at St. Louis may effect iron and steel markets extensively. The minor metals are all a shade stronger.

Failures for the week have been 239 in the United States, against 215 last year, and 20 in Canada, against 34 last year.

SOMETHING NEW IN SLEEVES

Leg o' Muttons Elaborately Trimmed. Mother Hubbards For Little Ones.

In sleeve shapes the leg o' mutton remains the favorite, although it is modified and reconstructed in various ways. A great deal of trimming is seen on sleeves, especially of cloth dresses. One imported model has a most elaborate scroll pattern done in narrow ribbon. This ribbon is applied on to the fabric and is in a contrasting color. A caprice in sleeves shows them extended over the tops of the shoulders to form a collar—a not very attractive novelty, however. Sleeves made entirely of narrow puffings are approved, and also those with alternate sections of plain and figured goods.

Mother Hubbard gowns remain in favor for very little girls, but many variations are obtained by different ways of mounting the body of the dress on the yoke and by cutting the yokes in different shapes. These last are almost always of lace, guipure or embroidery and are bordered by ruffles, galloon, platings or ruffles, which form berthas, fichus and epaulets. Wide lace collars are a favorite ornament, and bands of insertion, either lengthwise or horizontal, are much employed. Choux and bows appear as trimming.

For older girls the fashions approximate to those of women. Louis Quinze bodices and vests, with white accessories and fancy buttons, are worn, and taffeta gowns trimmed with gauze and mousseline. Gauze and white tulle enter largely into juvenile millinery, with large bows of pompadour or striped ribbon. Black stockings are the rule, and black boots are considered appropriate for street and formal wear. Tan and brown shoes are reserved for country wear.

An illustration is given of a costume of white broche silk. The bodice skirt is untrimmed. The pointed bodice, which is laid in plaits at the waist in front, has a square guimpe and bouffant sleeves of white embroidered gauze. Gold passementerie forms the belt and epaulets, borders the guimpe and edges the capelike oversleeves of silk. The collarette is composed of coques of pale green ribbon.

STYLISH SKIRTS.

Broadened Silks—Braided Patterns For Outdoor Dresses and Jackets.

The best skirt for general service is a black one, but all sorts of material are eligible, so there is ample opportunity for the exercise of taste and discretion. Crepon is an old standby, the heavier weaves being the preferred ones. Mohair crepons are as pretty as silk and wool ones and far more serviceable. Boucle goods and alpaca are useful, but not suited to accompany elaborate bodices. With the advent of broadened silk has become popular for street wear, and a skirt of black silk or broadened is a very useful addition to the wardrobe. Silk skirts require to be gored, and when it is possible they should be lined with taffeta and should have a dust ruffle of the same goods. Plain skirts are better without stiffening of any sort, but if it is added it must be a narrow facing.

Many of the new costumes for outdoor wear are braided with some fanciful design down the front of the short coats, and the same idea is carried out down the front seams of the skirts. Some serge skirts show graduated rows of black braid, while the basques of jackets are trimmed in the same style.

Tulle and gauze are having an immense vogue for millinery purposes. They are exceedingly pretty and summery looking, but as fragile as cobwebs and dew. Milliners will gather in a rich harvest while these fugitive materials remain in fashion, for they require constant renewing.

An illustration is given of a charming costume, the skirt of which is of pink lawn, plaited, with satin stripes. The bodice, of old point, has a short, rippled basque and opens in front over a low necked chemise of green silk embroidered with pearls. The edges of the fronts of the bodice are ornamented with coquilles of lace, which lace is continued over the shoulders to form epaulets and a berthas. Bows of rose satin adorn the shoulders. The sleeves are close and wrinkled horizontally almost to the top, where there is a small puff. They terminate at the wrists in lace frills. The hat, of fancy straw, is trimmed with ostrich feathers and orchids.

THE JOUR DES MORTS IN PARIS.

It Costs $5,000 a Month for Flowers for Young Mackay's Tomb.

Winter has come upon Paris in its most unpleasant form—that of icy drizzle. It interfered on Sunday with pilgrimages to the cemeteries, says a correspondent of the London Daily News. Tens of thousands wended their way there in the morning before the rain began to fall. The graves were less richly decorated with flowers than usual. This season chrysanthemums are more than twice the price they were last winter. The long drought interfered with the growth of these flowers. The intramural cemeteries are the most adorned. A perpetual grave of two square yards now costs £42, and one of ten yards £840. Rich people only can lie there, and nobody is sure that they will not be disturbed. The city has a right to run a new thoroughfare across a cemetery without giving compensation, but it must bear the expense of transporting the remains and rebuilding the tombs. The tomb of Marie Bashkirtseff at Passy was one of the sights of the day, ornamented with white chrysanthemums that looked soft as falling snowflakes. M. Thiers' tomb, which is also that of Mme. Thiers and her mother, was remarkable for its wealth of fresh roses. Mme. Dosne devotes her time and much of her fortune to a rose garden and greenhouses to keep this grave perpetually covered with flowers, but she is most lavish on the Jour des Morts. The coffin of the late Mr. J. W. Mackay, now lying in a vault of St. Augustine's church, was not to be seen. It will be transported to Greenwood cemetery, United States, when Mrs. Mackay has recovered strength enough to attend the second funeral. Meanwhile a florist contracts to keep the vault decorated with flowers at the cost of $1,000 a month. The family, on their side constantly send choice flowers.

A Patron of Music.

The Emperor William's interest in music was (a Berlin correspondent says) lately shown in a very practical way. The other day, when he was shooting in the forests of Letzingen, the band of the Uhlans played selections during the dinner. The emperor, with his suite, went up to the musicians and made some observations about the way in which an Italian popular song, "Funiculi Funicula," had been played, saying that it should have been taken quicker. Thereupon the emperor took the baton, and under his conductorship the song had to be repeated. He further conducted some military marches. Five songs by Count Philip Von Eulenburg, the German ambassador in Vienna, pleased the emperor so much that all had to be repeated.

Is emblem of where he bought his new suit?
Where the rage of his rivals, the loves of their

Are acknowledged by all to be of the best

St. Louis, May 30.—Abe Slusky, the celebrated politician and statesman of this city, is believed to be lying dead and buried somewhere under the ruins of St. Louis. He has not been seen at any of his customary haunts since the green cyclone turned everything and everybody topsy-turvy, and the efforts of several indefatigable searching parties to find his remains have been unavailing.

A FEW OF OUR MANY

HOT WEATHER BARGAINS!

50c Shirt Waists--

To those who have had our 50c Shirt Waists no description is necessary. To others, only this--- that they are identified by the large; stylish, Bishop sleeves; by fullness in body, and the general tone of a higher priced Waist.

3 prs. Gents' Seamless Hose 25c.

They are soft and fine. The kind that is a comfort to wear this hot weather. It is not many year since you would pay 25c a pair for them.

Silk and Leather Belts--

We show more Belts than all Janesville combined--Leather Belts in black, white, tans, modes and browns; Silk Belts with chased and engraved gold, silver and black buckles. You will say that our 25c values are worth double.

25c Silk Mitts--

For 25 cents we sell you almost as good a pair as you paid 50 cents for last season.

25c Ladies' Neck Ties--

We are having a great sale on Ladies' Ties, and why shouldn't we when we give 35, 40 and 50 cent values for 25c?

5 and 10c Ladies' Vests--

We have just received our fourth large shipment of these goods. The values must be right or our sales would not run into the thousands of dozens.

Link Shirt Waist Sets--

75 new styles to show you, and the usual Dry Goods profit market on each set. This means a big saving to you.

Officers of Women's Clubs.
Louisville, Ky., May 30.—The Federation of Clubs is victorious. If any of the members of the nominating committee opposed to her re-election they did not show their hands. Mrs. Henrotin was the only nominee reported to the convention, and she went through with a whoop. The election of other officers resulted as follows: Vice-President—Mrs. Alice Ives Breed, of Massachusetts; recording secretary—Mrs. C. P. Barnes, of Louisville; corresponding secretary—Mrs. Philip N. Moore, of St. Louis; treasurer—Mrs. Frank Trumbull, of Colorado; auditor—Miss Annie Law, of Cincinnati, O.

Instruct for Gov. Altgeld.
Benton, Ill., May 30.—The democrats of Franklin county instructed for John P. Altgeld for governor. Free silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 was indorsed, and a resolution favoring Bland for president was adopted.

Waukegan, Ill., May 30.—The county democratic convention met at Libertyville and selected delegates to attend the state, congressional and senatorial conventions. No action was taken upon the money question.

Proceedings in Congress.
Washington, May 30.—The senate reached an agreement to take a final vote on the bill to prohibit the issue of bonds on Tuesday next before adjournment, Mr. Hill reserving right to move to postpone the vote.

The rivers and harbors bill veto was read in the house and referred without debate to the committee. Mr. Herman stated that action on the motion to pass the bill over the veto would probably be taken on Tuesday.

Window Glass Plant Shuts Down.
Chicago, June 1.—All the window glass factories in Pennsylvania controlled by the Pittsburgh Window Glass company, and all the factories in Indiana under domination of the Western Glass company, as the two branches of the trust are called, closed down and will not reopen until Sept. 1. The only exception is the Chambers Glass company, which is not controlled by either association.

Denied by Chairman Harrity.
Washington, May 30.—In answer to a question Chairman Harrity of the democratic national committee has written to Senator-elect Money of Mississippi denying that the committee will exclude from the convention any democrats suspected of an intention to bolt in case the platform declares for gold.

Zella Nicolaus May Be Dead.
Indianapolis, May 30.—Zella Nicolaus' mother thinks Zella was buried in the ruins of a tornado-swept house in St. Louis.

To Oppose William English.
Indianapolis, May 30.—The free silver democrats have appointed a committee of arrangements for a mass meeting in the near future, to be addressed by Senator Blackburn, Editor Shanklin and ex-Congressman Shively. The situation, as a result, is embarrassing to William E. English, whom Governor Matthews has asked to stand for national delegate, but whom the silver men now say they will be compelled to oppose because of his sound money views.
